St Joseph's Church, Brindle

Last week it was announced that St Joseph's Church in Brindle may be taken out of sacred use at the end of the month. A further period of consultation is continuing until 22nd January but the current lease for use of St Joseph's church with the trustees of Ampleforth Abbey who own the buildings elapses at the end of the month. If no alternative solution is found a new parish will be created at the beginning of February combining the territory of St Joseph's parish with the territory of St Bede's parish. We keep the parishioners of St Joseph's in our prayers in what must be a very difficult time for them. We will give further information about what this might mean for the parishioners of St Joseph's and parishioners of St Bede's and St Chad's as we receive the results of the consultation from the Archbishop.

Poinsettias at Christmas

Thank you to everyone who made a donation to help us decorate our Churches for Christmas with Poinsettias. You can now take your plants home with you after Mass. At St Bede's please put the trays that are underneath the Poinsettias inside the black bucket at the back of the church. There are plenty of plastic bags for your Poinsettias.
